WHERE HEAVENLY FOOD IS SERVED BY ANGELS

Nestled in the small town of Plover, Wisconsin, the Sky Club boasts a rich history dating back to 1935. Named Army's a gas station owned by George Armstrong. Located a few miles away from the Felix Gauthiers Airport which residents now call Airline Drive in the Village of Plover. What began as a humble wayside stop, offering homemade sandwiches and oven-baked chicken to travelers, quickly became a local landmark. Marion Nall, created the Sky Club name in 1940 due to the proximity to the Mc Dill airport; the visionary behind this venture, also provided free camping and a gas station, creating a unique haven for those passing through. The original building served not only as a bar and restaurant but also as the operator's home, fostering a welcoming atmosphere.

As the post-war era boomed, the wayside evolved into a full-fledged "supper club," its reputation growing alongside its menu. A pivotal moment arrived in 1950 with the introduction of what is believed to be the first ever self-service, all-you-can-eat salad bar – a true innovation that became a hallmark of the Sky Club. It was around this time that the memorable slogan, "Heavenly Food Served by Angels," emerged, reportedly coined by Tom Leech, Tom was the owner of the Whiting paper mill on "Tommy's Turnpike".

Ownership of this beloved establishment transitioned through several hands: George Armstrong "Army's Gas Station" 1931, Marion Nall 1940, Louie Jacobs, John Rocco, and Louie and Evelyn Schnittger, 1950 before John Freund of Neenah took the reins in 1961. John Freund unexpectedly passed away in January of 1965, Leaving his sons Doug 25 & Terry 24 years young to step into their father's footsteps and continue to operate the SKY CLUB Legacy for the Freund family back in Neenah. In May 1966, their brother Dennis joined them, bringing even more youthful energy to the business. Despite their initial lack of experience, their dedication soon propelled the Sky Club to success.

The journey wasn't without its challenges. In 1969, Doug pursued other ventures, after a devastating fire in late November forced a temporary closure until June 1970. However, fueled by loyal customers and dedicated employees, Dennis and Terry rebuilt, adding a new dining room in 1976, which involved moving the adjacent family home. Further expansions followed in 1981 and 1994, testament to their resilience and commitment.

With immense pride, the Freund brothers witnessed the growth and longevity of their family business. Dennis retired in the summer of 1999, and Terry followed suit in the summer of 2007, retiring fully from the restaurant industry in January 2023 after selling his other restaurant, "Headwaters." Today, the tradition continues with Terry's sons, who took ownership in 2007, Patrick and Eric, and their families. The Freund family expresses deep gratitude to their past and present patrons and employees for their role in the Sky Club's enduring success, embracing the future with the sentiment: "And we've only just begun.... Once again."
